

ROYAL MALAYSIAN CUSTOMS

MALAYSIA GOODS AND SERVICES TAX (GST) GUIDE

WAREHOUSING SCHEME (DRAFT)

CONTENTS

PAGE

1.	INTRODUCTION	3
2.	OVERVIEW	3 - 4
3.	TERMINOLOGY	4 - 5
4.	MOVEMENTS OF GOODS INTO A LICENSED WAREHOUSE	5 - 6
5.	MOVEMENTS OF GOODS FROM A LICENSED WAREHOUSE	6 - 7
6.	MOVEMENTS OF GOODS IN TRANSIT UNDER WAREHOUSING SCHEME	7
7.	SUPPLY OF GOODS AND SERVICES WITHIN A WAREHOUSE	7 - 9
8.	LIABILITIES OF A WAREHOUSE OPERATOR	9 - 12
9.	FURTHER INFORMATION	12

1. INTRODUCTION

This Industry Guide is prepared to assist you in understanding the Goods and Services Tax and its implications on Warehousing Scheme.

1.1. Overview of Goods and Services Tax (GST)

Goods and Services Tax (GST) is a multi-stage tax on domestic consumption. GST is charged on all taxable supplies of goods and services in Malaysia except those specifically exempted. GST is also charged on importation of goods and services into Malaysia.

Payment of tax is made in stages by the intermediaries in the production and distribution process. Although the tax would be paid throughout the production and distribution chain, it is ultimately passed on to the final consumer. Therefore, the tax itself is not a cost to the intermediaries and does not appear as an expense item in their financial statements.

In Malaysia, a person who is registered under the Goods and Services Tax Act 20xx is known as “registered person”. A registered person is required to charge output tax on his taxable supply of goods and services made to his customers. He is allowed to claim input tax credit on any GST incurred on his purchases which are inputs to his business. Thus, this mechanism would avoid double taxation and only the value added at each stage is taxed.

2. OVERVIEW

A bonded warehouse is a designated area, approved by the Royal Malaysian Customs (RMC) under Section 65 of the Customs Act 1967, for storing dutiable goods. However, since 1981, its function has been enhanced for other activities such as break bulking and trading to facilitate commercial activities as well as to making it a distribution hub within the ASEAN region. Its creation also help to reduce port congestion and for convenience of the importers.

There are few categories of warehouse under the Customs Act, subject to approval, such as public warehouse, private warehouse, PEKEMA (Association of Malay Importers and Traders of Motor Vehicles of Malaysia) warehouse and public agent warehouse. Each category has different criteria and different type of goods to be kept but all of them need to be licensed under Section 65 of the same act.

The following value-added activities can be performed on stored goods in all licensed warehouses except PEKEMA warehouse:-

- i. warehousing dutiable goods;
- ii. break bulking - where goods are released from a warehouse in smaller quantities;
- iii. repacking - where homogeneous goods being packed in smaller or larger quantities, or packing of various types of goods into a set;
- iv. relabelling – where goods are being relabelled, for example with importers or distributors name before distributing them locally;
- v. devenning - where goods are allowed to be sold directly to a buyer in a warehouse either duties and/or tax on the goods have been paid or not;
- vi. consolidation - where goods (dutiable and locally sourced) are consolidated for export;
- vii. entreport trade - where imported goods are to be re- exported;
- viii. internal transport (e.g. forklift) and handling charges.

In general, under the GST system, goods are subject to GST upon importation. The payment of GST by importers at the point of importation would cause difficulties in terms of cash flow as they have to pay the tax upfront. Thus, a special scheme known as a warehousing scheme is introduced to assist them to alleviate cash flow problems. Generally, GST on all goods imported and deposited in a public warehouse is suspended.

This scheme is provided for importers or owner of the goods as the users of a warehouse since it provides storage facilities with GST suspended.

3. TERMINOLOGY

3.1 Under the customs rules and regulations, there are few types of warehouse such as follows:

- i. Public warehouse – it is managed by private companies and also government linked companies (GLCs) for convenience of the public.
- ii. Private warehouse – it is managed by companies for storing its own goods only.

- iii. PEKEMA warehouse – it is allowed only for keeping motor vehicles imported by PEKEMA members.
 - iv. Public agent warehouse – it is approved for cargo complex at ports or airports and managed by their respective agents for handling goods.
- 3.2 Under GST law, the definition of warehouse and duty point is defined as follows:
- i. 'warehouse' means –
 - a. any customs warehouse under section 63 of the Customs Act 1967;
 - b. any licensed warehouse under section 65 of the Customs Act 1967;
 - c. any duty free shop licensed under section 65D of the Customs Act 1967.
 - d. any inland clearance depot licensed under section 65E of the Customs Act 1967.
 - ii. 'duty point', in relation to any goods, means the time when the goods are removed from the warehousing scheme.

GST APPLICATION IN A LICENSED WAREHOUSE REGIME

4. MOVEMENTS OF GOODS INTO A LICENSED WAREHOUSE

4.1 If I am an importer and I want to store my imported goods in a warehouse, what is the GST implication on the movement of the goods?

GST on imported goods is suspended when the goods are stored in a warehouse.

4.2 If I am the owner of goods sourced locally and I want to send my goods to a licensed warehouse for consolidation before I export them, is there any GST due on the goods?

If locally produced goods is permitted to be stored in bonded warehouse, GST is not applicable on such movements of goods (no transfer of ownership yet). However, you can zero rate your consolidated goods when you export them. You may claim any input tax incurred on your exported goods as your input tax if you are a GST registered person.

4.3 Is there any GST implication on the goods transported from a free commercial zone (FCZ) to a bonded warehouse?

GST is suspended on the goods being transported from a Free Commercial Zone (FCZ) to a bonded warehouse, as FCZ is deemed to be a place outside the principal customs area (PCA) for GST purposes. Such movement of goods is covered by Form Customs No.8.

4.4 If I am an importer in a principal customs area, and I would like to buy goods from Labuan, can I keep the goods that I purchased in a warehouse? What is the GST implication on the movement of such goods?

Goods purchased from Labuan are deemed to be imported under the GST law. Hence, you are allowed to store your goods purchased from Labuan in a warehouse with GST suspended.

4.5 If I want to transport my goods from a warehouse to another warehouse for value-added activities, is GST suspended on the goods?

GST on goods that are to be removed from a warehouse to another warehouse is still suspended since the goods remain under customs control. Such movement is to be covered under Form Customs No.8.

5. MOVEMENTS OF GOODS FROM A LICENCED WAREHOUSE

5.1 If I am an exporter and I want to export my goods which have already been stored in a warehouse, what is the treatment of GST on such goods?

If you want to export your warehoused goods, you can zero rate them upon exportation. Declaration has to be made in Customs no.2 form at the warehouse. You can also claim any input tax incurred on your exported goods as your credit. Documentary proof of export must be maintained by you for verification. Please refer to General Guide on Export for details.

5.2 If I am an importer and I would like to remove goods from a warehouse for local consumption, what is the GST treatment on such removal?

If goods are to be taken out from the warehouse for local consumption, such removal would attract GST. Declaration must be made in Customs no.1 form for payment of any customs duties and GST on the goods taken out from the warehouse. Under the warehouse procedure if the goods are removed partially, then declaration and payment of any customs duties and GST has to be made in Customs no.9 form. GST on the goods remain in the warehouse is still suspended.

5.3 If I am a trader and I have consolidated goods consisting of locally acquired and imported goods in a bonded warehouse which I would like to sell them to a duty free shop (DFS) or an operator in a free port, what is the treatment of GST on such goods?

GST is suspended for any movement of goods between a warehouse to a duty free shop since duty free shop is also a warehouse. However, the consolidated goods can be zero rated when such goods are removed from the bonded warehouse to a free port.

5.4 If I am a participant under an Approved Trader Scheme (ATS), can I use the scheme to suspend GST on goods purchased from a warehouse?

GST can be suspended when you buy imported goods from a warehouse, if you are a participant under ATS. For further details, refer this to the ATS guide.

5.5. Are incidental services such as transportation and other charges provided by a transport company and forwarding agent attract GST when goods are removed from or to a warehouse?

Generally, services in relation to removal of goods from or to a warehouse such as transportation and other charges would attract GST if the services provider is a GST registered person.

6. MOVEMENT OF GOODS IN TRANSIT UNDER THE WAREHOUSING SCHEME

6.1 If I want to remove my goods from a warehouse to another warehouse, how would GST affect such movement?

No GST is imposed on the removal of goods from a warehouse to another warehouse as the tax is suspended on such movement of the goods. You need to declare the goods in Customs no.8 form.

7. SUPPLY OF GOODS AND SERVICES WITHIN A WAREHOUSE

If there is more than one supply (for imported goods) within a warehouse, then only the last supply is subject to GST. The intermediate supplies within the warehouse are disregarded for GST purposes. The last supply is subject to GST because it triggers the duty point.

The value of the supply is treated as including any duties (whether customs duty or excise duty or both, if any). The tax on the supply must be paid at the duty point, together with the duty (if any). For further details, please refer to the guide of valuation.

Example

I keep my imported goods in a warehouse approved under section 63 of the Customs Act. One of my local customers has agreed to buy certain goods at RM10, 000.00. How does my customer determine the value of the last supply? (Assumption: Prevailing import duty rate = 10% and GST = 4%)

*Value of supply	= RM 10,000.00
The effective rate of duty	= 10% + 4% + (4% on 10%) = 14.4%
Value for customs purposes	= $100/114.4 \times \text{RM } 10,000.00$
	= RM 8,741.26

Your customer needs to declare the following amount:

Value for customs purposes	= RM 8,741.26
Import duty	= RM 874.13
GST on the value of RM 9,615.39	= RM 384.61
Total	= RM 10,000.00

Note: The value RM10, 000 is inclusive of duty and GST.*

7.1 I outsource my labeling and repacking activities within a bonded warehouse. What is the GST implication on the outsourced services?

The outsourced services are subject to GST if provided by a GST registered person even though the activities are carried out within the warehouse.

7.2 I am a trader. If I want to buy goods owned by Mr. X which are currently stored in a public bonded warehouse, and then consolidate them in the warehouse with goods locally purchased before exporting them, do I have to pay GST on my local purchase?

You have to pay GST on your local purchase. However, no tax is imposed on your purchase from Mr. X as the goods were supplied within the warehousing scheme. You can zero rate your consolidated goods when you export them. If you are a GST registered person, you can claim the tax charged on your local purchase as your input tax.

7.3 If I, as a trader, purchase warehoused goods from Mr. X and Mr. Y, repack those goods and then sell them to Mr. Z in the same warehouse, is there any GST chargeable on the purchase and sale of the goods within the warehouse?

No GST is imposed on the sales of the goods since supplies that take place within a warehouse and before the duty point is disregarded.

8. LIABILITIES OF A WAREHOUSE OPERATOR

8.1 As a warehouse operator, do I need to register for GST?

You must apply to be a GST registered person if you make taxable supplies and the value of your taxable supplies has reached or is expected to reach the prescribed threshold for the past or future 12 months.

8.2 What are the supplies made by a warehouse operator that is regarded as taxable supplies?

Taxable supplies made by a warehouse operator include the following;

- Rental of warehouse space or equipments.
- Loading and unloading of goods.
- Customs clearance services.
- Forwarding fee charged to customers.
- Any other value-added services.

8.3 If I am a warehouse operator and at the same time I am also an Inland Clearance Depot (ICD) operator, using the same company name, do I have to register both businesses separately?

A company which carries out different type of businesses is still regarded as one entity. Hence, both businesses would be treated as operated by a single taxable person. However, the different business units may be registered separately according to the nature of the business under divisional registration. For further details, please refer to the GST Registration Guide.

8.4 I operate a few warehouses which are located throughout Malaysia. If my turnover for each warehouse falls below the threshold level do I still have to register?

If the aggregate turnover exceeds the prescribed threshold, you have to register your business under the GST law even though the turnover for each warehouse is below the threshold.

8.5 What are my responsibilities as a GST registered person?

Your responsibilities are listed below:-

- i) Bank Guarantee
You must furnish a bank guarantee or bond to cover the potential duty and/or GST payable on the imported goods held at any one time.
- ii) Stock records
You must maintain lot number records;
A lot number is a unique transaction number assigned by the warehouse operator for each product in a shipment of goods. It is required for the purpose of tracking the particular goods of a shipment.
- iii) Returns/ Audit
You are required to submit monthly return on the movement of goods and discrepancy report (if applicable). You are also required to furnish an audit report to the GST officer or proper officer of customs. Your account may be audited by GST officer whenever necessary.

8.6 If I am a warehouse operator and also a GST registered person, what records must I maintain?

All records and accounting documents of your business are required to be kept and maintained under the GST system or any other customs regulations, including the following:

- Import/Export/In-transit declaration forms.
- Monthly Stock Returns
- Discrepancies Report
- In-handling report
- Out-handling report

- Monthly stock listing

(Refer to the General Guide on Record keeping for further details.)

8.7 How long must I keep the records?

You must keep the records, accounts or documents related to the warehoused goods in your possession for at least seven years. Failure to do so is an offence and will be subjected to a fine not exceeding fifty thousand ringgit or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years or to both.

8.8 Do I have to keep the records in my warehouse?

You must keep all your warehouse records and documents in your premise, unless we allow otherwise.

8.9 What must I do if there are discrepancies between the actual stock and the recorded stock?

If any discrepancies between the actual stock and the recorded stock are discovered at any time, you must submit a report without delay, containing:

- (a) actions taken to investigate the discrepancies and their outcome;
- (b) amount of customs duty and/or GST payable, if applicable;
- (c) date of payment of customs duty and/or GST.

If goods are found to be deficient in your warehouse, you are liable to pay the GST due on such goods as you are responsible for the security and proper control of the warehoused goods. In such a case, GST has to be paid by you and you have to declare it as your output tax as such discrepancies are deemed to be a supply made by you.

However, if you can prove to the satisfaction of the Director General that the deficiency has been caused as a result of incidents, such as a fire or break-in at the warehouse with supporting documents such as insurance claims, police report, or a survey report, then the Director General may remit the tax chargeable.

8.10 What happens if goods are damaged in a warehouse?

Proper documentation such as the survey report describing the cause of the damage and the quantity involved must be furnished to the Director General immediately. However, GST is chargeable on the damaged goods unless remission of the tax is obtained from the Director General.

8.11 What are the treatments of GST on goods and services consumed in a warehouse?

Supply of goods and services consumed in a warehouse are subject to GST. This means that services provided by you such as handling of goods and storage charges are standard rated. You must declare the GST levied in your GST return as your output tax.

The person who acquired your services such as importer or owner of warehoused goods can claim GST incurred on the services charged by you, as his ITC if he is a GST registered person.

8.12 As a warehouse operator, can I claim GST charged on my utilities and warehouse equipments such as forklifts?

You can claim all GST incurred on your acquisition in the course or furtherance of your business if you are a registered person. This includes acquisition such as capital assets and all overheads related to your business.

8.13 Can I withdraw from GST system?

You cannot withdraw from the GST system unless your taxable supplies have fallen below the threshold. In such a case, you must inform the Director General in writing. However, if you are a voluntary registered person, you must stay in the system for at least two years before you can apply for withdrawal.

When you cease to be a registered person, you are required to account for tax in your final return on all your stocks excluding stored goods. You remain responsible for any discrepancies on the stored goods.

9. FURTHER INFORMATION

If you require any further information regarding GST, please contact our officer at any of our GST office or call toll free line No. 1800 XX XXXX. You can also visit our website at <http://www.gst.customs.gov.my>.